Rose brings taste of New Jersey to Madison

"My family and the Baxters go way back," relates Hannah Rose, daughter of "Hoboken" Eddie McCarthy. "So when I was about 17 years old I found myself down in Key West, Florida, hanging out with the Baxters, who have a place down there." (The Baxter/Bickis clan also has a long association with Madison.)

CHARLIE ROHLFING
CHARLIE'S BEAT

"I'd played some grade school violin back in Warwick, New Jersey where I grew up, but when I got to Key West I'd just picked up the ukulele. I didn't really know how to play it yet, but I was plucking around on it, trying to teach myself. Sebastian Baxter had this pan flute and he'd try to play along.

"We were over at Simonton Beach with our instruments, messing around, and this old Native-American man called us over. He says he can help us. He says we should go over to Mallory Square and ask for Javier and he'll show us how to master our instruments for just $5. Sounded like a fool proof plan to us!

"Now, for anyone who hasn't been to Key West, Mallory Square is THE place where everybody goes in the evening to watch the sunset. The square is filled with jugglers and musicians and magicians and puppeteers and all manner of performers, working for tips from the tourists.

"So we go there and we find Javier, like the old guy told us. Well, Javier takes us to this kiosk where another guy is renting spaces on Mallory Square to performers … for $5! He takes our money and shows us to a spot.

"That was it! That was the old Native-American's wise plan. Go pay your five bucks and start playing for the tourists. Sink or swim. So we played, and we were terrible. I think we made $8 in tips.

Airport seeking funds to upgrade water line

Project could spur growth, improve safety

BY MARK CAMPBELL

Madison Municipal Airport currently has 34 hangars on site — including one that also serves as a base of operations for a business — and the main thing standing in the way of additional private investment is apparently a lack of infrastructure in the water lines that serve the facility.

Airport Manager Brent Spry and Dick Goodman, president of the Madison Board of Aviation Commissioners, both addressed the city's Redevelopment Commission on Tuesday asking for about $30,000 in support from the city's Tax Increment Financing Fund that could pay off in millions based on potential growth and use of the airport.

According to Goodman, the airport — the hangars, the terminal building and fuel farm that was upgraded just months ago — are all served by a 3-inch City of Madison water line that is "woefully inadequate" for a facility of that size. Attracting new development, such as developing additional hangars, could prove difficult unless the airport's water needs are better met.

Goodman said a 6-inch line — double the water flow and pressure of the existing line — would help solve that problem and the aviation board has quotes of $28,500, and $31,300 for a project to install a bigger line from Clifty Drive to the airport property, 3119 West IMS Lane.

The project is expected to not only spur a new wave of airport development with the construction of more hangars and operations but also provide improvements in airport safety over the current conditions. The airport, opened in May of 1964, is relied upon by several local industries and businesses and is responsible for millions of dollars in annual economic impact and up to 400 jobs by businesses that might otherwise not have located in Madison.

Mayor Bob Courtney said the airport is an economic asset to the community and he supports the investment. Courtney said Madison Fire Chief Bill DeVries and the city's water department have been consulted and are

Hanover, college working to sort utility, infrastructure issues

BY BOB DEMAREE

The Town of Hanover and Hanover College are working to sort out which entity is responsible for the various utilities and infrastructure they share in the community.

Hanover Clerk-Treasurer Keith Mefford and Council President Kenny Garrett reported at Tuesday's city meeting that they had met with college officials earlier in the day to determine which of the two is responsible for street lights, roads and utilities like water and sewage.

"We spoke our minds and they spoke theirs," Garrett said.

The meeting is partly due to an upcoming joint sewer project that will involve the Town of Hanover and Hanover College, but there are other areas the two entities need to sort out to avoid any future confusion.

Board member Treva Shelton said Hanover College is located in her council district and she often fields questions when there are issues that need to be resolved. She

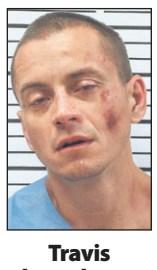
Tasers deployed to subdue naked man at Lowe's

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Madison Police deployed their tasers multiple times before subduing a Madison man who was naked and acting wildly toward officers in the parking lot of a hilltop business early Tuesday morning.



Travis Lynn Jones

Travis Lynn Jones, 40, of Madison, was arrested after Madison City Police received a call at 1:24 a.m. reporting that a naked male was in the parking lot of the Lowe's Home Improvement, 511 Ivy Tech Drive, and "acting bizarre."

MPD Lt. Season Jackson was the first officer to arrive at the scene and found the suspect to be acting consistent with the caller's report.

When Jackson attempted to exit her vehicle, Jones rushed toward the officer's patrol car and attempted to keep the door shut. Patrolman Brian Ashcraft arrived on the scene soon after and was able to divert Jones' attention away from Jackson's vehicle.

Both officers were finally able to exit their vehicles and attempt to take Jones into custody. However, Jones aggressively resisted leading the officers to deploy their tasers. Jones continued to resist, and several more taser deployments were required before the officers were able to take him into custody.

Jones faces preliminary charges of Criminal Confinement, a Level 6 felony, and Public Nudity and Resisting Law Enforcement, both Class A misdemeanors. He was lodged in the Jefferson County Jail without bond.

BIKE CRASHES ON HANGING ROCK HILL

Madison Police on Monday investigated a motorcycle crash on Hanging Rock Hill that resulted in minor leg injuries to a Bartholomew County woman after the bike she was riding apparently experienced mechanical issues.

The crash took place at 3:23 p.m. when Tracy L. Bruce, 54, Columbus, lost control of her 1997 Honda while traveling north on State Road 7 near Terrace Drive. Bruce told police the motorcycle experienced mechanical issues causing her to lose control and go off the edge of the roadway.

Bruce was transported to King's Daughters' Hospital for treatment of her injuries.

COLLEGE

said there have been several situations where the answer was uncertain on whether a person should contact the town or the college. Garrett noted there have been instances in which "no one can tell you what it's supposed be."

Mefford said the town will work with attorney Devon Sharpe to guide them through the process.

"We want transparency," Mefford said, so that there is "more clarity."

Garrett said both sides are communicating well and working together, so "moving forward, it will get better."

One issue Mefford said was cleared up in the latest discussion is that college officials confirmed that the "college owns the entire infrastructure of the water and sewer on the campus."

However, Mefford said that still leaves unanswered questions.

"What if we pave a new street and the college has to dig it up" for a water and sewer issue, Mefford said, noting which would be responsible for that paving still needs to be determined.

Mefford said those and other issues are important as the town pursues state Community Crossing grants to fund the paving of the town's streets.

"There are 13 streets in town not part of the inventory for Community Crossing," Mefford said, adding there's one street at Hanover College that is listed in the town's inventory even though it no longer exists. "There's a building that's on it now."

Mefford said more meetings are planned, and they will continue working toward clearing up the confusion.

In other business, the board:

• Approved spending $5,425 for a SoToxa intoximeter, an oral fluid mobile analyzer system for Hanover Town Police that provides roadside drug testing with speed, ease of use, reliability and accuracy. The intoximeter costs $4,500 with the other $925 earmarked for cartridge used with the device. Hanover Patrolman Kyle Pence noted officers are more likely to encounter persons impaired on drugs than alcohol, and the intoximeter will allow them to more accurately and efficiently test for drugs. Town Marshal Shane Caldwell noted 80 law enforcement agencies in the state now use the intoximeter including the Jefferson County Sheriff's Office.

• Approved purchase of a 72-inch Ferris lawn mower for $13,844.95. Mefford noted the town's current 12-year-old mower is malfunctioning after logging 2,100 hours of use and "would cost more to repair than it's worth, and now it's mowing season and we're down a lawn mower."

Mefford had initially proposed purchasing a Scag 72-inch Cheetah lawn mower for $11,517.95 on the recommendation of Superintendent of Utilities Scott Williams, but Garrett and Mefford both agreed that the Ferris mower was the better piece of equipment and more suitable for the town's needs.

• Applied for a Indiana Department of Natural Resources for the Land and Water Conservation Fund grant ahead of a midnight Tuesday deadline. Park Committee Chairman Don Server noted there had been some discussion of waiting to apply for the grant until a decision is made on possible land acquisition adjacent to the park because the additional acreage might qualify the town for additional funding, but it was decided to not wait on that to happen.

"We need to get where it needs to be now," said Garrett.

• Heard from Joel Ferguson, 237 Main Street, on a drainage issue that pushes water into the driveway of his residence. He said the issue is with how water drains in that where it goes downhill is 4 to 5 inches higher than the upper portion, causing it to pool.

"I'm not mad at anyone. I would just like to have it fixed,"Ferguson said

"We will address it," said Mefford, noting the city can work to correct the water flow.

• Approved purchase of a new wastewater treatment plant sludge pump for $4,000 to replace one that malfunctioned earlier Tuesday. "We had to get it fixed," said Mefford, who noted the device is critical to recycling the sludge and insuring effective plant operation.

• Announced that an auction has been set for two town-owned properties, at 138 Ohio Avenue and 132 Maple Street, for 5:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 24.

• Approved an ordinance formalizing the pay rate for the newly created building inspector/nuisance officer position at a maximum of $16 per hour and a minimum of $11 per hour for a maximum of 25 hours weekly.

• Approved an ordinance establishing a transfer of park and local income tax funds totaling $11,000 toward the benefits package of the parks director.

• Heard a report by Mefford that last Saturday's concert at Hanover Park Amphitheater was a success even though the crowd was a bit small.

"I am happy with it. We sold enough tickets," he said. "The people there enjoyed it."

"But that experience taught me that there's really nothing to be afraid of. It helped me gain the confidence to get out there and start making my own music. After I'd practiced a little more, of course!

"When I got back to New Jersey I immersed myself in the vibrant DIY music scene that was flourishing there. I started writing my own songs and performing at the Tuscan Cafe on open mic nights. I'd picked up the banjo by that time, also. It really helped me push past my shyness.

"So I moved here to Madison awhile back to help with my dad's restaurant and hot sauce business. And I'd like to help promote that same DIY music scene here that I'd discovered in New Jersey. It's really healthy for the younger musicians who don't really have an outlet to play.

"I'm also developing my own music and trying to get it out there. I recently recorded three new songs down in Nashville and I'm sort of strategically releasing them every couple months on YouTube.

"I have a plan for my life, and music is a big part of it.

HOT TIP OF THE WEEK

The calendar looks a little slim this week, but that's mainly because several of the venue owners didn't get me their music schedules by the deadline. I can say very confidently that there will be music at the Off Broadway Taproom on Friday and Saturday, and most likely also at the Riverboat Inn and the Lighthouse on Saturday night. Of course, Mad Paddle Brewery continues to be very consistent with live music every Thursday, Friday and Saturday. And Steve Thomas holds the longevity award for hosting live music just about every Saturday for 25 years! So get out there this weekend, the weather is going to be fine. There's always something hopping in Indiana's Music City!

Errors, walks and hit batsmen doom Madison

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

SELLERSBURG — The unholy trinity of baseball errors, walks and hit batsmen proved fatal for Madison which saw its stellar 2021 season end with a 3-0 loss to No. 8 Silver Creek in the Class 3A Sectional championship Monday in Sellersburg.

Madison pitchers Ben Orrill and Zach Forner combined to allow just five hits in the game, but seven walks and four hit batters gave the Dragons all the baserunners they needed and two crucial errors led to all three runs.

The Cubs, who were held to just four hits of their own, got a runner to second base only once in the game and never threatened to score. It was a disappointing end for a once proud program that had reached the 20-win mark for the first time since the 2003 season.

But despite that ending, Madison coach Tim Armstrong was proud of his team's accomplishments and is excited about the future.

"We're back to almost where we want to be. These guys are business-like and I can't say enough about them. I love them to death. They work hard every single day and they're focused on what they do," Armstrong said. "It happens. It's a physical game and it was physical errors that did us in. Just timely situations."

Silver Creek (23-8) forced Orrill to throw nearly 40 pitches in an extended first inning that ended up with no runs on the board but set the tone for the rest of the game.

David Campbell

Madison shortstop Drew Forner (23) hauls in a high throw on a stolen base by Silver Creek's Greyson Durick in the Cubs' loss in the 3A Sectional championship game on Monday.

The sophomore Orrill had emerged as the team's best pitcher during the season, but he struggled mightily to put away hitters as the veteran Dragons fouled off seemingly everything he threw. That patience paid off big time in the second inning when a walk and two hit batters loaded the bases and a key two-out error allowed two runs to score for an early 2-0 lead.

Despite his soaring pitch count, Orrill stayed in the game as long as he could, reaching the 120-pitch limit after one batter reached in the fifth inning. That one batter Orrill faced, Bailey Hale, singled and eventually stole both second and third base against reliever Forner. It was on the steal of third that Madison committed its second error as catcher Zander Vonch's throw to third-baseman Myles Barnes went low and caromed away from the bag allowing Hale to score.

Madison (20-10) put together its best offensive threat in the bottom of the fifth when Trenton Barnes and Keegan Clement each reached on singles to open the inning but Silver Creek pitcher Holden Groher responded by striking out the next two batters. Groher then grounded out Drew Forner to end the threat.

The fifth inning proved to be the only time Madison could get a runner in scoring position against the Butler-bound Groher, who used his sweeping curveball and mid-80s fastball to hold the Cubs in check.

"We're baseball players and we're going to get better. (Silver Creek coach) Joe Decker came over after the game and said that 'I don't know if I want to play you guys the next couple of years,' " Armstrong said of his young team. "That doesn't make it any better today. It's sad to see these seniors go because they're the ones that got us back to this point with their dedication, their work ethic with the younger guys. I just can't imagine how better we would have been had we been able to work with these guys last year."

Craig Demaree and Vonch had Madison's other hits in the game. Orrill (5-4) took the loss after allowing three unearned runs on two hits in four innings with four strikeouts.Silver Creek, which has now won four straight sectional titles, will face Southridge in the regional at Southridge on Saturday.

Members of Southwestern's baseball team meet with their coaches after falling to South Ripley in the Class 2A Sectional championship game on Monday.

Linkel powers Raiders past ninth-ranked Southwestern, 6-3

BY JORDAN BEAR

VERSAILLES — Ninth-ranked Southwestern was able to draw first blood but it was ultimately Brady Linkel and South Ripley who inflicted the most damage in a 6-3 win in the Class 2A Baseball Sectional championship on Monday in Versailles.

You couldn't have penciled in a better start for the Rebels, who were facing the highly-touted Linkel for the first time this year. Senior Brady McLain launched a two-out, two-run double to right center to give the Rebels a 2-0 lead in the top of the second inning to the applause of the large contingent of Rebels fans in attendance.

Linkel, who has signed with Ohio University in the fall, throws in the low 90s and Southwestern coach Dan Thurston said that's something his team was working on.

"We had the gun set at 93 in practice so the guys knew what to expect. We were up there hacking and we were able to get to him early," Thurston said. "Unfortunately, we have an inning with some defensive mistakes that cost us and it handed them all of the momentum."

Thurston was referring to the third inning in which South Ripley was able to string together a big rally thanks to Southwestern defensive mistakes. After starting pitcher Zach Cole retired the lead off batter, everything seemed to go wrong for the Rebels defensively, who committed four miscues allowing the Raiders to score four runs and take a 4-2 lead.

Southwestern pushed across a run in the fifth on a sacrifice fly by Cole to close the gap to 4-3 but the Raiders put the final nail in the coffin in the sixth inning when Linkel smashed a two-run home run deep into the woods behind the left field fence to give the Raiders a 6-3 lead.

The Rebels went down in order in the seventh and the Raiders celebrated their sectional title.

Although obviously disappointed in the outcome, Thurston was proud of his team and in particular his seniors. The Rebels posted their first winning season in more than a decade and first 20-win season in more than 20 years, finishing the campaign at 22-8.

"I'm so proud of this team. They came together so well this year and that can be tough with a first-year coach, but they embraced me and my style of baseball," Thurston said.

The Rebels managed only four hits against Linkel, who struck out eight and walked three in seven innings. Jordan DeAtley, William Stockdale and Jamison Lewis each had singles to go with McLain's double.

Cole (5-3) pitched all six innings for Southwestern and took the loss after giving up two earned runs on eight hits with five strikeouts and two walks.

Southwestern has to say goodbye to seniors Foster Mefford, Landon DeAtley, Ethan Stewart, McLain and Jackson Stockdale.

"They're awesome. They have laid the foundation for this program going forward. They have bought in from day one, and this today is no reflection of what our seniors have done for our program," Thurston said. "I'm so proud of them and the standard that they have set for Southwestern Baseball."

South Ripley (15-6) will face Providence in the semifinals of the regional at Evansville Bosse on Saturday.

31ST DISTRICT SOFTBALL

Ginn's 15th homer not enough for Trimble

BY DAVID CAMPBELL

Henry County ace Grace Adams had her way with Trimble County for the second time this year, allowing just one long hit to Emma Ginn while leading the LadyCats to a 12-2 win in the 31st District softball championship at Carroll County on Tuesday.

Adams, who struck out eight in a three-inning no-hitter over the Raiders two weeks ago, fanned 13 Tuesday while walking four in six innings, using her velocity and riseball to evade Trimble bats left and right.

The only Raider she didn't fool was Ginn, who continued her lightning-hot season at the plate by reaching on an error in the first inning and then blasting a two-run home run to center field in the third for her school-record 15th bomb of the season. Ginn was denied a third at-bat in the sixth when she was intentionally walked despite there being no runners on base and Trimble trailing 10-2 at the time.

But other than Ginn, the Raiders were helpless against Adams, who was named the tournament's Most Valuable Player.

"I think she's leading the state in ERA. She's tough. She throws the ball well," Trimble coach Randy Wilson said. "We tried to be patient but when she's hitting her spots, she's tough to hit."

With Trimble County (24-11) struggling to make contact against Adams, the pressure was placed squarely on the shoulders of starting pitcher McKenna Ritchie to keep the Raiders in the game. But hampered with a bad back that caused her to miss nearly two weeks late in the season, Ritchie simply didn't have the velocity or the location to keep the hard-hitting Cats at bay.

Henry County (18-4) pushed a run across in the first inning and scored four runs in the second on two hits, two walks and a hit batter to seize control of the game. Ginn belted her home run in the third with Maddie Nixon on board after a walk, but another four-run inning in the fourth put the game away. Henry's two runs in the six ended the game on the mercy rule.

David Campbell

Trimble County's Emma Ginn rounds the bases after hitting her 15th home run of the season as Maddie Nixon (foreground) celebrates during Trimble County's loss to Henry County in the 31st District championship game on Tuesday.

Ritchie (19-8) lasted four and a third innings before she left the game and was replaced by Hannah Chilton. Ritchie allowed seven earned runs on 10 hits in four and a third innings. Wilson had nothing but praise for his pitcher's effort and attitude.

"She's been hurting and I told her to let me know when she couldn't do it anymore," Wilson said. "She looked at me in the fifth and said she was done. It's been hard for her and I'm proud of the way she battled."

Trimble reached the championship with a 15-0 rout of Eminence in the semifinals on Monday.

Ginn hit two home runs in that game and was 3-for-3 with five RBIs and three runs scored, raising her batting average to .677 for third-best in the state.

Her 15 home runs are fifth-best in the state while her 1.376 slugging percentage and 75 RBIs lead the state.

"She's killing the ball. When she's up at bat, I have all kinds of confidence in her," Wilson said. "She sees the ball so well you know that she's going to make something happen."

Rachael Liter was 3-for-4 with two doubles, three RBIs and two runs scored against Eminence, Nixon was 3-for-4 with a triple and two RBIs, Shelby Wilcoxson was 2-for-3 with a double, and Kaylee Payton had two hits with a home run, three RBIs and three runs scored.

Ritchie struck out four and allowed four hits in four innings of work to get the win.

The Eighth Region Tournament will be played at Oldham County beginning Sunday in Buckner, Kentucky.

Pairings will be announced later this week.

31ST DISTRICT BASEBALL

Carroll and Trimble both eliminated in semifinals

BY THE COURIER STAFF

Both Carroll County and Trimble County lost in the semifinals of the 31st District Baseball Tournament at Carroll County on Monday.

Carroll County fell 10-5 to Owen County while Trimble lost 17-2 to Henry County.

Owen County scored in every inning but the seventh to post its win over host Carroll County. The Rebels got two runs in the bottom of the first and two more in the second to build a 4-1 lead then traded runs with the Panthers the rest of the way.

Carroll (16-9) racked up seven hits in the loss with Jaxon Hewitt going 2-for-4 with an RBI and David Smith lashing a double and driving in two runs.

Landon Isaacs had a single, an RBI and a run scored, Marky Perkinson and Kayne Scruggs each had a hit and scored a run, Luke Staley had a hit and Andrew Shaw scored twice.

Isaacs (5-1) took the loss after allowing 10 runs — just four earned — on 10 hits in four innings with two strikeouts.

Henry County used an 11-run second-inning to blow open its win over Trimble County.

J.T. Wilcoxson and Roy Wieber each had hits for the Raiders with Wilcoxson also driving in a run. Dylan Jennings and Jesse Peak each scored runs.

Jace Ogburn (0-4) took the loss for Trimble after giving up five earned runs on three hits in one inning with two strikeouts.

Henry County defeated Owen County 12-2 in the championship game on Tuesday. Both Henry and Owen now advance to the Eighth Region Tournament.

Invisible disabilities

Dear Readers: Father's Day is coming up, and I'd love to hear from you: What is the most valuable trait that your father (or a father figure in your life) instilled in you? Send your responses to dearannie@creators.com. I'll share some here for the holiday.

ANNIE LANE
DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: A few years ago, after many, many years of going to doctors and having tests done, I found out that I am disabled. The only problem is that I don't LOOK disabled. I'm a young person, and the disability I suffer from is invisible. I often feel symptoms of imposter syndrome due to this, and I deny myself help. I have abandoned trying to find medicines that could help me because my body has proven to be resistant to many pain medications. I do not use my cane, and I surely won't use the assistance of a wheelchair, should I need it.

Years of ridicule have left me exhausted, and I feel aged beyond my years. The public eye is far too judgmental for me to feel comfortable using the aids that I sometimes so desperately need, and this has led me to be a shut-in. I want to live my life freely, but I am too afraid of repercussions from appearing as a healthy young person "imitating the disabled." For all of those battling the illnesses beyond visibility, how do we feel free to own our lives? — Invisibly Ill

Dear Invisibly Ill: In pain, afraid to live freely, ashamed to reach out for help — how incredibly isolated you must feel. But you're not alone. In fact, I'm sure someone reading this has been nodding their head all the way through, recognizing their own story in your letter. Millions of Americans live with invisible or "nonapparent" disabilities, and I think you'd find great relief in talking with some of them. The Invisible Disabilities Association hosts an online support community at https://www.inspire.com/groups/invisible-disabilities-association. Another resource is the Invisible Disability Project, whose website is https://www.invisibledisabilityproject.org. You may not be able to reduce the physical hardships of your disability, but you can at least lighten the emotional burden.

Dear Annie: I'm writing about your advice to "My Own Mrs. Robinson," who sought advice about his affair with his mother-in-law. I am not questioning the advice you gave him. I am just wondering why you didn't slap down his astonishing claim that his marriage was great. I mean, really! — Antonia

Dear Antonia: I'm glad you brought this up. There were so many outrageous parts of that letter that I didn't have time to get to them all!

"Ask Me Anything: A Year of Advice From Dear Annie" is out now! Annie Lane's debut book — featuring favorite columns on love, friendship, family and etiquette — is available as a paperback and e-book. Visit http://www.creatorspublishing.com for more information. Long-distance boyfriend

DEAR ANNIE

Dear Annie: I have dated a guy for the last six years, always long-distance. I have loved this man with my whole heart. The issue is we have not met each other's families. He has never met my kids and doesn't even want to. He will not acknowledge our relationship on his social media profiles. His parents know nothing of me. We do not spend holidays or birthdays together. We do not go on dates. The last time we saw each other in person was two years ago. He barely even texts me. There is always an excuse as to why he is unavailable. Yet he claims that he loves me. I just don't get it. I want to leave, but I care about him so much. What do I do? — Mixed Signals

Dear Mixed: This man sounds more like a pen pal than a boyfriend (and not a very good pen pal, at that). You deserve to be with someone who wants to see you often, spend holidays together, introduce you to his family and meet your children — in short, someone who wants to be with you. You'll never meet him if you're too busy staring at your phone waiting to hear from this guy. Break it off, stat.

Dear Annie: We have periodic overnight visits with my sister-in-law, "Lindsay," and her boyfriend, "Luis," who live out of state. We would either visit them at their house or host them at ours if there is some family event going on. We love them both, and they are both lovely people to spend time with — except for this problem we are experiencing.

When we get together, we usually spend the evenings watching TV or movies together. Every time, as soon as we settle down and start a movie, Luis starts falling asleep and snoring — really loudly. Lindsay will wake him up. He'll stop for a minute. And then, a short time later, he starts snoring again. This goes on all night and really ruins the evening. My husband sits there very irritated the whole time. Eventually, I say I'm tired and go to bed early. We have suggested he go to bed, but he just says he's awake now, and then the snoring cycle starts all over again.

Do you have any suggestions on how we can handle this situation? — Can't Hear the Movie

Dear Can't: Try starting movies earlier in the night and leaving some lights on. If the snooze fest goes on, issue him a gentle wake-up call on the matter — something friendly but direct, such as: "We love spending time with you, but your snoring makes it hard to hear the movie. Mind heading up to bed when you get sleepy?" Also, recommend that he talk to his doctor about being screened for sleep apnea. Sleep apnea can cause snoring and, because it prevents people from getting a full night's sleep, chronic fatigue.
